

The Daily Courant.

Monday, September 29. 1707.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Octob. 1.

Puicerda, Sept. 15.

THE 9th of this Month, the Duke de Noailles came from Rouffillon, having left a sufficient Number of Troops to guard the Frontier on that side. He arriv'd the 11th at Montlouis with 6 Battalions and 2 Regiments of Dragoons, with Design to enter the Spanish Cerdagne: But having with him so few Troops, he sent Orders to the Inhabitants of the French Cerdagne to take Arms and joyn him. The 12th in the Morning he arriv'd at Livia, within three Quarters of a League of Puicerda, having first sent to summon the People of the Spanish Cerdagne to come and pay Obedience to their lawful King. His unexpected Arrival produc'd the Effect he wish'd: For the Town of Puicerda sent Deputies to him to make their Submission to his Catholick Majesty, notwithstanding the Fear they were in of being punish'd for their Revolt. He enter'd into that Place in the Evening, the Garrison, consisting of 300 Men, Horse and Foot, having left it at the first Appearance of his Troops in the Plain. The Duke de Noailles caus'd his Troops to observe so good Discipline, that many of the Inhabitants, who fear'd they should be plunder'd and ill us'd, being encourag'd by the good Order the Soldiers observ'd, came back into the Town. All the neighbouring Places made their Submission likewise to the King, not one offering to take up Arms for the Archduke. We found in this Country great Plenty of Forrage; and Provisions sufficient for the Subsistence of the Troops. This Town being situate near the Head of the Segra, the Duke de Noailles may either joyn the Army of the Duke of Orleans; or make a Diversion by continuing hereabouts, as he shall think fit.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated Octob. 4.

Saragossa, Sept. 15. The French Troops that are garrison'd here in the Palace of the Inquisition, began the 12th Instant to patrol about the City in the Night. Letters from Tervel advise, that Brigadier Don Joseph Chaves has possess'd himself of the small Town of Alkoy, 400 Miquelets who defended it very bravely 5 Days retiring in the Night Time to the Mountains. The Chevalier d'Hasfelt, with the Body of Troops he commands, and with 6 Cannon and some Pontons, is march'd towards Tortosa, to alarm the Enemy on that Side. 'Tis advis'd from Valencia, that the Garrison of Alicant had made frequent Sallies, and oblig'd M. Mahoni to retire with his Troops out of the Neighbourhood of Denia.

Madrid, Sept. 17. The Duke of Orleans has writ to the King from the Camp before Lerida the 13th, that the Trenches would be open'd the next Day; but that the Garrison, consisting of 3 English Regiments and a good number of Arragonian and Catalonian Militia, seem'd determin'd to defend the Place to the last Extremity. The Enemy commanded by the Earl of Galloway, were come and encamp'd between Pallarols and la Tallada 2 Miles from Cervera on an Advantageous Ground, but 4 or 5000 Horse and 3000 Foot having been detach'd from our Army to secure the Passes at Anglesola, it will be impossible for the Enemy to interrupt the Siege of Lerida. They write from the Frontiers of Portugal, that our Generals were making great Preparations to recover Ciudad Rodrigo, designing after that to undertake the Siege of Almeida.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Octob. 4.

From the Camp of the Allies at Scalengo near Pignerol, Sept. 17. The Army having pass'd the Var and the Mountains, without being molest'd by the Enemy in their March, the Duke of Savoy came and incamp'd with the Van-Guard near Saluses, and Prince Eugene with the Rear at Savigliano. The 14th, his Royal Highness came to this Camp with Prince Eugene, who had left the Command of the Rear-Guard to the Prince of Wirtemberg, who arriv'd here yesterday. To Day the first Line of the Army has decamp'd, and taken the Route of the Valley of Suza. His Royal Highness will follow to Morrow with the rest of the Army, and is to separate from Prince Eugene on a certain Hill. His Royal Highness has resolv'd to march towards Pignerol with Part of the Army, and 'tis said Prince Eugene is to advance towards Suza with the other Part.

Milan, Sept. 20. The Duke of Savoy has caus'd 60 Pieces of heavy Cannon to be drawn out of the Arsenal of Turin, in order, as 'tis said, to form the Sieges of Suza and Fenestrelles. The Palatin Troops are to be transported to Catalonia, after they have been some Days in Quarters of Refreshment. Our Governor has receiv'd Orders to prepare for the Reception of the Princess of Wolfembuttel, who is betroth'd to King Charles, and will set forward from Vienna the 15th of next Month. They write from Naples, that Gaeta and Pescara are very much straighten'd, and that Count Martiniz and Count Taun were indispos'd.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Sept. 26.

From the Camp near Etlingen, Sept. 26. The Elector of Hanover having Advice that M. de Vivans Lieutenant-General, was incamp'd with 7 Regiments of Horse and Dragoons, making 2000 Men, at Offenbourg, 9 Leagues from the Army under M. Villars; his Electoral Highness detach'd immediately and with all Secrecy Count Mercy, Major-General, who knows the Country perfectly well, with the Collonels the Prince of Lobcowitz and Gondecourt, Lieutenant-Collonel Pelliers, 1400 Horse, and 100 Grenadiers, to undertake something against the Enemy. Yesterday Prince Lewis of Lobcowitz, Captain of Horse, arriv'd here from Count Mercy, with Advice, that after having re-assembled his Detachment, which he had divided into several Parties, and caus'd to march by different Routes, the better to conceal his Design, he approach'd Offenbourg the 24th at Break of Day, under favour of a Fog; and attack'd the French with so great Vigour, that he made himself Master of their Camp, after having kill'd 6 or 700 Men [the Harlem Courant says 800.] He took 150 Prisoners, about 1200 Horses, [the Harlem Courant says 1300,] 3 Pair of Kettle-Drums, 4 Standards, and all their Baggage. M. de Vivans who had no Notice of Count Mercy's approach, but by an Alarm given by some of his Men whom he had sent out that Day to Forage, presently drew up his Troops, and stood his Ground as well as he could: He rally'd them several times, but all to no purpose: and he had much ado to make his Escape with the remainder of his Men. 'Tis said that among the Enemy's slain, there are a General Officer, and a Collonel, who are much lamented. On our side we lost only about 60 Men, and among them 2 Lieutenants. Count Mercy is coming back to re-joyn us; and we shall then know more Particulars of this Action, which is considerable, and look'd upon by all as a Presage of the future good Successes that may be expected from his Electoral Highness's Command. That Prince's Life-Guards arriv'd in the Camp the 23d. 'Tis said that M. de Vivans was waiting for some Reinforcements to make an Incursion into Swabia through the Black Forest.

From

From the Leiden Gazette, dated October 4.
Frankfort, Sept. 28. The Count of Nassau Weilbourg General of the Elector Palatine's Troops, went hence Yesterday to the Army of the Empire encamp'd near Etlingen. Our last Advices from that Army import, that the Elector of Hanover, to spare the Country, had forbid the Troops to go to Forage;
 and had sent Order to the Inhabitants of the Villages about his Camp, to bring in themselves all the Forage that should be requir'd: That his Electoral Highness has summon'd the Deputies of the Circles to come to the Army the 4th of October, to confer with him about the Repartition of the Winter Quarters, and the Operations of the next Campaign;
 and that he causes the King of Denmark to be fol-licited urgently, that his Troops in Bavaria may march to the upper Rhine.

From the Harlem Courant, dated October 4.
Hague, Oct. 3. A Relation is transmitted from Etlingen of the Defeat of 7 of the Enemy's Regiments commanded by M. de Vivans, which imports, That Count Merci having desir'd the Elector of Ha-novver to let him go upon an Enterprize against a Body of 2000 Horse which the Marshal de Villars had sent under M. de Vivans towards the Brisgau, march'd with 14 or 1500 Horse, including 400 of the Duke of Wirtemberg's that joyn'd him by the Way. He attack'd the French near Dornenburg the 24th in the Morning; they had but short notice of his approach, yet they defended themselves stoutly;
 rallying thrice: At length they quitted their Horses,
 and on Foot sav'd themselves among the Vineyards, leaving their Horses (at least 1200) to the Victors, and 100 Men Prisoners, most of them Officers, among them 1 Colonel, and 2 Lieutenant Colonels:
 They had 7 or 800 Men kill'd, among them 2 Colonels. The Loss of the Germans amounts to 120 or 130 Men, 3 Pair of Kettle-Drums were taken, and the young Prince of Lobcowitz, who would not wait for all the Particulars, saw 3 Standards. Among the Enemy were 300 Bavarians that came from the Netherlands, and were most of them cut off. 400 Gren-adiers that were sent out of Fribourg to General Merci did him very good Service; there were no other Foot in the Action. All the Advices say, that the Marshal de Villars intended that this Detachment, which he was to reinforce with some Foot, should invest Fribourg. All the Enemy's Tents and Baggage were plunder'd and burnt; for the Imperialists were oblig'd to make Dispatch, some of the Enemy's Foot approaching.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Octob. 4.
Brusbe, Sept. 25. The greatest part of the Swedish
